OWNER RELEASE

After a pre-sedation physical exam and possible blood and EKG testing, your pet will be sedated and have a complete dental cleaning, polishing and fluoride treatment. Depending on the severity of your pet's dental disease, it may be necessary to perform tooth extractions. In some cases, teeth are so loose during the routine cleaning that these teeth will fall out. In other cases, the decision may have to be made to extract a tooth to prevent further problems such as oral pain and infections.

CHECK ONE BELOW

- I agree in advance that Pitman Animal Hospital perform whatever dental procedures are necessary for the well-being and comfort of my pet.
- I request that I receive a telephone call after oral exam and dental cleaning to discuss what further dental procedures need to be done. I understand that if I am not available at the telephone number that I have indicated above, Pitman Animal Hospital has my permission to perform any dental procedures that are indicated.

I have read and understand the foregoing. I understand that some teeth may need to be extracted during the dental procedure. I understand that all anesthesia and surgery involves some minimal risk to my pet and it is thoroughly understood that I assume all risks.
